

Screen

48:4 Winter 2007

issue editor

Sarah Street

PAUL BEGIN: Entomology as anthropology in the films of Luis Buñuel 425

ISABEL BALSEIRO: Exile and longing in Abderrahmane Sissako's
La Vie sur terre 443

J.P. TELOTTE: Winsor McCay's warped spaces 463

ANTHONY ENNS: The politics of Ostalgie: post-socialist nostalgia in recent German film 475

Africa's Lost Classics dossier

LIZELLE BISSCHOFF and DAVID MURPHY: Introduction 493

IMRUH BAKARI: Colonialism and modern lives in African cinema 501

MARK COUSINS: Discovering Africa's Orson Welles 507

JACQUELINE MAINGARD: South African cinema: histories and futures 511

ROY ARMES: Women pioneers of Arab cinema 517

JUNE GIVANNI: Digging for gold 521

ANNE LOUYOT: Plan Images Archives 525

the Caché debate, continued

GUY AUSTIN: Drawing trauma: visual testimony in Caché and J'ai 8 ans 529

reviews

SHOHINI CHAUDHURI: Hamid Dabashi (ed.), Dreams of a Nation: on Palestinian Cinema; Lina Khatib, Filming the Modern Middle East: Politics in the Cinemas of Hollywood and the Arab World; Hamid Reza Sadr, Iranian Cinema: a Political History 537

MARK GLANCY: Richard Abel, Americanizing the Movies and 'Movie-Mad' Audiences, 1910–1914 543

STEVEN COHAN: Richard Dyer, Pastiche 547

LAWRENCE NAPPER: Steve Chibnall, 'Quota Quickies': the Birth of the British 'B' Film 551

JANET HARBORD: George Kouvaros, Where Does it Happen? John Cassavetes and the Cinema at Breaking Point 555

CONTRIBUTORS: 559

NOTES TO CONTRIBUTORS: 561

cover illustration

Praying mantis drawn by Max Ernst; programme cover for L'Âge d'or
(Luis Buñuel, 1930)